Description

A laboratory course designed specifically for the non-ATMS major student who is interested in learning about aspects of the earth's atmosphere to a greater depth than can be gained in a lecture hall. A significant portion of the laboratory sessions will be spent outside observing weather elements and an appreciation of the challenges in making accurate measurements will be gained. ATMS 111 satisfies the LAC laboratory science requirement.

Outline

Student Learning Outcomes

Each ATMS 111 student will

- gain accurate scientifically-based conceptual models of atmospheric structure and evolution on multiple spatial and temporal scales,
- develop an ability to communicate these conceptual models through writing,
- develop an ability to make a significant contribution to a team-based research effort, and
- develop problem-solving skills.

Attendance

Attendance for a laboratory class is critical since the number of meeting times in ATMS 111 is rather limited (once per week) during the semester. Students will be working in groups in ATMS 111 so that others in the class will be counting on you to make a solid contribution to their team research project. For this reason, attendance will be taken and will count toward a significant portion (14%) of the final course grade. One absence will result in the loss of half of the attendance score (7%) and two or more absences will result in an attendance score of zero. Exceptions will be made for university-sanctioned events (e.g., athletic events, undergraduate research-related trips) or a documented illness or family emergency. In the event of an acceptable absence, the student will submit a written plan to Prof. Miller describing how the missed work will be made up and the deadline for turning in the make-up work.

Preparatory Exercises

Bi-weekly preparatory exercise assignments will be completed by each individual in ATMS 111 and are designed to encourage the development or “re-awakening” of skills necessary for an upcoming laboratory exercise. Consulting with other students on the exercises is permissible but each must turn in their own work. Preparatory exercises are due the Monday after they have been assigned.

Laboratory Exam I and II

The mid-term laboratory exams I and II will primarily be testing material relevant to Laboratory Reports #1-3 and #4-6, respectively. Testable material will also include concepts presented on the corresponding preparatory exercises. There will be NO final examination in ATMS 111. Instead, the final exam period will be used as a debrief session to review course material from a “big picture” perspective.

Laboratory Reports

Scientists must provide documentation for each experiment that they undertake so that successive generations can build on their findings. In order to build on past findings, it is critical that the results be reproducible. This requires that scientific papers provide a detailed description of what was done in order to achieve the observed results. Each laboratory report in this course will follow an outline containing the sections; (1) Background and Introduction, (2) Methodology, (3) Results, (4) Conclusions, and (5) References. Laboratory reports must be type-written and double-spaced so that they can be easily read and graded. Recall that the purpose of these reports is “to learn how scientists communicate their findings with colleagues via the written word.”

Assignment/Exam Policy

Assignments are to be handed in before the start of lecture on the date they are due. Assignments handed in after the start of lecture are considered late until 4:30 pm on the date they are due and will have an automatic 10% deduction from their final score. Assignments handed in after 4:30 pm on the date they are due will receive no credit.

Exams are written tests and will be taken on the date they are scheduled, unless circumstances (e.g. medical or loss in the family) warrant. Make-up exams for special circumstances will occur at a mutually agreed upon time outside of the usual class meeting time.

Office of Academic Accessibility

UNC-Asheville values the diversity of our student body as a strength and a critical component of our dynamic community. Students with disabilities or temporary injuries/conditions may require accommodations due to barriers in the structure of facilities, course design, technology used for curricular purposes, or other campus resources.

Students who experience a barrier to full access to this class should let the professor know, and/or make an appointment to meet with the Office of Academic Accessibility as soon as possible. To make an appointment, call 828.232.5050; email academicaccess@unca.edu; use this link <https://uncaoaaintake.youcanbook.me/>; or drop by the Academic Accessibility Office, room 005 in the One Stop suite (lower level of Ramsey Library). Learn more about the process of registering, and the services available through the Office of Academic Accessibility here: <https://oaa.unca.edu/>

While students may disclose disability at any point in the semester, students who receive Letters of Accommodation are strongly encouraged to request, obtain and present these to their professors as early in the semester as possible so that accommodations can be made in a timely manner. It is the student's responsibility to follow this process each semester.

Sexual Harassment and Misconduct

All members of the University community are expected to engage in conduct that contributes to the culture of integrity and honor upon which the University of North Carolina at Asheville is grounded. Acts of sexual misconduct, sexual harassment, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking jeopardize the health and welfare of our campus community and the larger community as a whole and will not be tolerated. The University has established procedures for preventing and investigating allegations of sexual misconduct, sexual harassment, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking that are compliant with Title IX federal regulations. To learn more about these procedures or to report an incident of sexual misconduct, go to titleix.unca.edu. Students may also report incidents to an instructor, faculty or staff member, who are required by law to notify the Title IX Office.

Academic Alerts

Faculty at UNCA are encouraged to use the university's Academic Alert system to communicate with students about their progress in courses. Academic Alerts can reflect that a student's performance is satisfactory at the time the alert is submitted, or they can indicate concerns (e.g., academic difficulty, attendance problems, or other concerns). Professors use the alert system because they are invested in student success and want to encourage open conversations about how students can improve their learning, and students who respond to alerts quickly are consistently more likely to earn credit for the course. Please note, professors of 100-level courses are required to submit at least one alert about each student on or before the seventh week of classes.

When a faculty member submits an alert that expresses a concern, the student receives an email from Academic Advising notifying them of the alert and subsequent registration hold on their account. To clear the hold, the student must complete a short Google Response Form included in the alert e-mail; the results will be shared with their instructor and advising staff. Instructors may also request to meet with the student to discuss the alert.

Questions about the Academic Alert system can be directed to Anne Marie Roberts (amrober1@unca.edu) in OneStop Advising and Learning Support.

University Writing Center

The University Writing Center (UWC) supports writers in one-on-one sessions lasting 10 to 45 minutes. Consultants can help writers organize ideas, document sources, and revise prose. If you visit the UWC, bring a copy of your assignment, any writing or notes you may have, and the sources you are working with. Make an appointment by visiting writingcenter.unca.edu and clicking on "Schedule an Appointment," or drop in during open hours Monday-Friday.

Academic Integrity

As a community of scholars dedicated to learning and the pursuit of knowledge, UNC Asheville relies on the honesty and academic integrity of all the members of its community. Any act of plagiarism, cheating, or use of unauthorized materials or assistance is academic dishonesty. A person who knowingly assists another in academic dishonesty is likewise guilty of dishonesty. A student committing a first offense of dishonesty will receive a failing grade or a grade of zero for the assignment or test. A student committing a second offense of dishonesty will receive a failing grade in the course and be reported to the Senior Director of Student Success.

In all situations where a student has been disciplined for academic dishonesty, the instructor must submit a brief statement of the case to the Senior Director of Student Success with a copy to the student. The Senior Director maintains records of academic dishonesty incidents and notifies the instructor when a student is found to have multiple offenses. Depending upon the severity and/or repetition of the offense, the Senior Director and/or instructor may recommend that the Provost impose an additional penalty, such as cancellation of graduation with honors, cancellation of scholarships, or dismissal from the university. If the Provost decides that additional penalties are warranted, the student will be notified in writing.

If a student feels that he or she has been unjustly accused of academic dishonesty, the student has ten (10) class days from the date of the instructor's written notification to the student to respond in writing. This response is to be sent to both the instructor and the Senior Director of Student Success. The instructor should then meet with the student to discuss the charges within five (5) class days. If needed, the student may then contact the Senior Director for assistance in identifying options for possible resolution. If needed, the Faculty Conciliator will be contacted to mediate and/or convene the Academic Appeals Board.
